Administration debates possibility of 15-week schedule

BY CHRISTOPHER LAURIE NEWTON
 ASSISTANT EDITOR

During the Spring 1996 semester, the Faculty Senate at Coastal voted to consider a 15-week schedule, as opposed to the 14-week schedule that the university has been using.

During the summer months, the Calendar Committee of the Senate worked on several possible schedules to accommodate the increased time allotments.

During all these meetings, the committee solicited suggestions from the faculty, and any other interested parties.

In the Sept. meeting, two options were offered as workable 15-week schedules, one for the Fall and one for the Spring; the Fall suggestion was adopted, with minor modifications.

The reasoning suggested change is the idea that Coastal may not be offering sufficient "contact" hours for students. Some of the faculty were concerned about not being able to cover the material of their classes in a satisfactory manner. Others were concerned that Coastal was, by its 14-week schedule, providing substandard instruction.

According to Dr. Wink Prince, Chairman of the Senate, some of the faculty "we're concerned that we behind the

"we're concerned that we [Coastal] might not be meeting our obligation [to the students]."

Dr. Wink Prince
 Chair of the Faculty Senate

[Coastal] might not be meeting our obligation [to the students]."

The 15-week schedule is not finalized as of yet, but the plan is that it will be implemented for a one year trial period, in the 1997-98 Academic Year.

While the new calendar had strong support, it had some strong detractors as well. Several faculty members opposed the 15-week plan, saying that it was impractical in regards to the three Summer semesters, since it would force all three summer sessions into four 5-day weeks. This would put undue stress on summer students and faculty alike, they believe.

Dr. Gilbert Hunt, Chair of the Department of Teacher Education Programs, stated that he supported the concept of the 15-week calendar, but he disagreed with cutting the time from the summer schedule.

He noted concerns about not only the large amount of material that students would have to absorb in the shortened time, but he also stated the added problem of the graduate courses offered during the summer.

Those who take the graduate courses offered at those times are teachers from the local school systems, and would be unable to accommodate the changes, Hunt claimed. Hunt recommended that the matter be referred to an overall faculty vote.

The opposition pointed out as well that many universities in the Southeast, including Duke University and Vanderbilt, use the 14-week schedule, and no one would accuse them of "substandard instruction."

They also claim that the increased semester makes it practically impossible for faculty members to do any research on the projects which bring prestige and recognition to Coastal, as well as provide them with valuable insights for the classroom.

With many instructors already stretched thin between classes and campus bureaucracy, those opposed to the calendar say it may be the straw that breaks the camel's back, so to speak.

Dr. John Idoux, Provost, stated the matter has not been finalized as of yet. According to Idoux, the Senate will be reviewing an additional provision in its next meeting on Oct. 2.

Idoux also stated that the resolution must receive President Ron Ingle's approval to be implemented.

Thus the final outcome remains to be seen.

A DIFFERENCE! On Wednesday, Sept. 25, Coastal held Club Recruitment Day in the Quad at the New Dorms. Various campus organizations were attempting to recruit new members. One organization was doing a little bit more than that, however. The African-American Association was not only recruiting new members for itself; it was registering people to vote. The African-American Association had registered almost 30 people to vote.

Deniece Palmer of the African-American Association stated, "I was very pleased with the turnout... These are the kinds of activities that the African-American Association would like to sponsor this year."

"It was a good idea to provide this service to the students here at Coastal," added Pat Singleton-Young, the group's advisor, "I hope we can continue to provide opportunities like this."

CCU students begin preparing for semester studying in England

BY GEOFF PARSONS
 GUEST WRITER

On January 4, 1997, a group of Coastal students will leave to study in England for spring semester 1997.

These students and approximately 20 others from around the state will be the first group to participate in our exchange agreement with Nene College, Northampton, England.

In return Coastal, the College of Charleston, Winthrop University, and Lander University will be hosting 32 students from England who will be coming to South Carolina to fulfill the study abroad requirements for their American Studies degree.

This bilateral agreement will allow our students to pursue a full time course study in England at Coastal prices.

Coastal students pay our tuition and our housing fees, saving a considerable amount of what they would have to pay were they to try to study in England independently.

Since this is an exchange under the terms of a formal agreement, our students are able to use their financial aid.

The academic program at Nene is writing intensive and research-based.

Nene has made many subjects available to the American students participating in this exchange, so everyone should be able to take courses related to their degree programs back here.

Our students will be joining regular classes attended by the British students, so they will have an excellent opportunity to get involved in the campus community. All of the South Carolina students will live on-campus in modern dorms.

Most rooms are single-occupancy with the showers and toilets down the hall. Each floor has a modern kitchen, with a big table for communal eating, since many students choose to buy their own food and cook.

To help our students take advantage of their proximity to the rest of England and Europe, Nene has put together a travel/study package, at additional cost, that includes several multiple-day, overnight trips to London, the Lake District, and to Brussels, Belgium.

Applications are still being taken up through Oct. 3, so if any of you are interested in participating visit Geoff Parsons in the Office of International Programs, Prince 105-J, or call 349-2053, or send an e-mail message to parsons@coastal.edu.

Announcements:HOME offers new parent support and education

HOME (Health, Opportunity, Meaning and Empowerment through Education) in the Center is a new parent education and support program offered through Coastal Carolina University's Center for Education and Community in the School of Education.

"The underlying philosophy of HOME in the Center is that a community is only as strong as its families," said Jim R. Rogers, professional parent educator in the Center for Education and Community and coordinator of the new program. "Parenting is the most important job anyone will ever have, and yet we rarely get any kind of training for it. HOME in the Center is designed to function as a hub for parenting information, training, referrals, resources and other initiatives to support parents and families in the workplace, schools and the community for Horry County and the surrounding region."

Programs will be offered on campus for faculty, staff and students. Programs and services include workshops for adults, teens, grandparents and other specialized groups and will focus on self-esteem building, empowerment and many facets of parenting. "We see these programs as a powerful form of primary prevention," said Sally Z. Hare, director of the Center for Education and Community. "So much of what has been available in parent counseling has been crisis intervention, of trying to apply 'bandaids' to an epidemic."

Rogers has led some training workshops for Horry County Schools home/school coordinators, as well as parent classes for schools, churches and the Department of Social Services. He also envisions workshops for businesses and corporations interested in developing parent-friendly workplaces. Future plans for HOME in the Center include private conferencing and special classes at sites throughout the community, as well as a resource library, a ParentLine and fax, a newsletter, ongoing Parent Clubs and a volunteer program.

Parents who would like more information on available programs should contact Jim R. Rogers at Coastal's Center for Education and Community, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 349-2675.

CCU Marine Science professor publishes book

Ecology of Marine Bivalves: An Ecosystem Approach by Richard F. Dame, professor of marine science at Coastal Carolina University, is being published this month by CRC Press of Boca Roton, Fla., a subsidiary of the Times-Mirror Co.

The book presents the first synthesis of marine bivalve (animals with a two valved shell, such as clams) ecology from an ecosystem or holistic view. The text explores the potential use of bivalves as indicators and monitors of ecosystem health and describes experiments Dame has conducted in this important, emerging field of study. Ecology of Marine Bivalves is designed as a reference for bivalve researchers, coastal and fisheries resource managers, and students.

Dame joined the Coastal faculty in 1971. He earned a Ph.D. in marine science from the University of South Carolina in 1971, a master's degree in zoology and ecology from the University of North Carolina in 1967 and a bachelor's degree in biology from the College of Charleston in 1964. He was South Carolina's first Palmetto Professor from 1992 to 1996 and served as the Ecosystem Studies program director at the National Science Foundation from 1992 to 1994.

Coastal Carolina to host British Studies Conference

Coastal Carolina University will host the Carolinas Symposium on British Studies Annual Conference on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5 and 6.

The conference brings together over 100 scholars from a fifteen-state area who have interests in British culture and history.

Several Coastal professors will be participating in the conference. Dr. Jacqueline Gmuca, Associate Professor of English, is the president of the symposium. Dr. Brian Nance, Assistant Professor of History, is the local arrangements chair, and Dr. Allen Michie, Assistant Professor of English, will be delivering a paper. Dr. Ray Moye, Assistant Professor of English, has also aided in coordination of the event.

Registration for the event will be in the Prince Building, in the foyer area, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday morning. Presentations will begin at 12 p.m. and proceed throughout the afternoon on Saturday, and on Sunday from 9 a.m. until 12 p.m. All meetings and presentations will be held in the Prince Building.

Anyone interested can register for the conference for $15. For more information, contact Dr. Brian Nance at 349-2461.

CCU to hold 5th Annual Conference for Working Women

Coastal Carolina University will host the American Management Association's 5th Annual Conference for Working Women on Wednesday, Oct. 23 from 12:45 to 3:45 p.m. in the Admissions Building, room 003. Registration begins at 12:30 p.m.

The live videoconference (via satellite) on succeeding in the workplace consists of lectures, role playing, and a telephone question and answer session with a panel of experts. Local discussions led by Rachael Broadhurst, a local real estate business owner, will follow the videoconference.

The registration fee is $49 and includes registration materials.

The program considers the challenges of all working women, including working mothers and single professionals. Key topics include the growing challenge of maintaining balance, opening communication channels between manager and employee, harnessing technology to link your multiple roles, easing the strain through employee-instituted programs and taking control by prioritizing and organizing your life.

Panelists will share their stories of maintaining balance in all areas of their careers and lives. Among the panelists are Mary Alice Williams, founding anchor and designer of the first worldwide television network, CNN; Lynn Povich, editor-in-chief of Working Woman magazine; and Faith A. Wohl, director of the Office of Workplace Initiatives at the U.S. General Services Administration.

The videoconference is sponsored by Coastal's E. Craig Wall Sr. School of Business Administration and Computer Science and the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services, the Conway Area Chamber of Commerce and the Myrtle Beach Area Chamber of Commerce.

For more information or to obtain a registration form, contact the Coastal Carolina University Division of Extended Learning and Public Services weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 349-2665.

Coastal Carolina University to sponsor Graduate School and Career Information Fair

Coastal Carolina University will host a Graduate School and Career Information Fair on Wednesday, Oct. 9, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Wall School of Business Building. Coastal students and alumni are encouraged to attend. The event is free.

"Any former or current students who are searching for jobs or contemplating going back to school can get valuable information at the Graduate School and Career Information Fair," said Mollie Fout, coordinator of Coastal's Career Management Services.

"Representatives from graduate schools at the University of South Carolina, Winthrop, Webster and several universities in North Carolina will attend the event, and businesses from across South Carolina will be represented at the fair.

Some of the participating employers will accept resumes at the fair and some will return to Coastal for active recruiting at a later date."

For more information, contact Mollie Fout at the Office of Student Employment and Career Management Services weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 349-2333.

Coastal Carolina University Wheelwright season announced

The Coastal Carolina University 1996-1997 Wheelwright Series presents 10 events including theatrical productions, dance, jazz, popular music and more.

William Shakespeare's comedy, A Midsummer Night's Dream, features a large cast of lovers, fairies, royals and rustics in an enchanted dreamscape of the human imagination.

As part of VIVACE, the Horry Cultural Arts Council's "Celebration of the Arts," this cooperative production joins the theatrical talents of the Coastal's University Theater, the First Presbyterian Church Players, the Lighthouse Theater Company, Myrtle Beach First Baptist Church Music and Drama Ministry, Seniors for the Performing Arts, Strand Ballet Theatre, Theatre of the Republic and Tricycle Productions. The production will be presented at Broadway at the Beach Saturday, Oct. 19 and Sunday, Oct. 20; and Saturday, Oct. 26 and Sunday, Oct. 27. Tickets are $8 and are available at all area Belk stores.

Shakespeare's brilliant portrait of villainy, Richard III, comes to Wheelwright in a professional production by the Columbia-based South Carolina Shakespeare Company Friday, Nov. 1 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10, $5 for students.

Winner of the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for best new foreign play of 1993, Frank McGuinness' Someone Who'll Watch Over Me brings to the Wheelwright stage a riveting story of three terrorist hostages who discover individual resilience and a common strength. Performances for this Coastal Carolina University Theater production are scheduled for Friday, Nov. 15 and Saturday, Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $8, $5 for students.

Theaterworks, a premier New York-based touring company, will present Johanna Spyri's beloved story Heidi, about a Swiss orphan seeking a place to belong, in an exuberant musical adaptation scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10, $5 for students; adults accompanied by a child are admitted free.

For the fourth year, George McCorkle, a former Marshall Tucker Band member, will swap songs and stories with a some of his accomplished colleagues in an informal jam session called Songwriters in the Round. This Wheelwright tradition will take place Thursday, January 23 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15, $5 for students.

Regarded as one of the finest brass players in jazz, virtuoso muted cornetist Warren Vache and The Warren Vache Trio, with Joe Puma on guitar and Murray Wall on bass, bring the cool riffs of mainstream jazz to the Wheelwright stage Saturday, January 25 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15, $5 for students.

Sheryl Ward and Friends showcases the splendid vocal talents of local singers, led by Ward, in a concert of songs including blues, gospel, jazz, pop standards and spirituals Saturday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $10, $5 for students.

A musical version of Studs Terkel's bestselling book, Working extols in song and dance working men and women whose soaring spirits and energy give integrity to their everyday jobs. Performances of this Coastal Carolina University Theater production are scheduled for Friday, Feb. 28 and Saturday, March 1 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 2 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $8, $5 for students.

Known for its extraordinary expansions of the art of dance, The Liz Lerman Dance Exchange brings its intriguing and brilliant artistry that combines movement with storytelling to Wheelwright on Sunday, April 13 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $15, $5 for students.

With caustic wit and wildly improbable situations, Joe Orton's contemporary British comedy, What the Butler Saw, produces hilarious disappearances, disguises and discoveries. Performances of this Coastal Carolina University Theater are scheduled for Friday, April 25 and Saturday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, April 27 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $8, $5 for students.

For more information about the Coastal Carolina University Wheelwright season, contact the Wheelwright Box Office weekdays from noon to 5 p.m. at 349-2502.

Office of Career Services offers Grad. School and Career fair

BY KIM FINELY
GUEST WRITER

The Graduate School and Career Information Fair will be held October 9 from 9:30 am - 1:30 P.M. in the Wall Building, First Floor Lobby. Representatives from graduate schools, business and industry, and government agencies will be available to discuss opportunities.

All students are encouraged to go by and gather information by utilizing their networking skills. Listed below are some of the organizations that will be participating: AFLAC, Benchmark Distributing, Blackbaud, Charleston County Government, Enterprise Rent-a-Car, Merrill Lynch, Norwest Financial, Policy Management Service, Rock Hill Police Department, Santee Cooper, The Factory Outlets, The Prudential, The Sun News, UPS, U.S. Army, USC - College of Business Administration, Waccamaw Corporation, Webster University Graduate School, Winston Hospitality and Winthrop University Graduate School.

Interview Preparation and Professional Etiquette Skills Workshops are scheduled for the following dates: Oct. 1, from 1-2 p.m. in the Student Center, Room 204; Oct. 2, from 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. in the Student Center, Room 204; Oct. 3, from 1-2 p.m. in the Student Center, Room 204.

The job interview is a major life step. It is important not to underestimate the impact a good interview can have on your chances of securing a desirable position. Students interested in practicing these skills may do so during mock interviews which will be conducted by local employers on Oct. 4 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Media Center, W-B Room 101. The interviews will last approximately 10-15 minutes and will then be reviewed and critiqued with you by the interviewer before leaving. Call the Office of Student Employment and Career Management Services at 349-2341 to schedule an interview. Students are asked to dress appropriately and bring a blank video tape to the session.

A comprehensive list of all Fall '96 Workshops can now be accessed via Coastal Home Page on the Internet. From the Yahoo page, type the location: www.coastal.edu. Once Coastal's page has been accessed, select "Library and Services", then "Student Employment and Career Management Services". Selecting "Student Employment" provides a direct link to JOBTAK - just click on JOBTAK's underlined Internet address.

Samsonite American Tourister Lark will be conducting on-campus interviews on Nov. 7 from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. The position is for a retail store manager trainee who will be willing to relocate in the Southeast. A 90-day paid training period will be provided as well as a full benefits package. Please call 349-2341 to schedule an interview.

United Carolina Bank will also be conducting interviews on Oct. 16 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. in Room 201 of the Student Center. They will be recruiting for a manager trainee position.

A Careers '97 College Recruitment Conference will be held in Atlanta on Jan. 27. The conference is designed to help students find, interview for, and get the job or internship they want.

This results-oriented program offers graduating seniors an unparalleled career opportunity that delivers results. For more information and brochures, stop by our office in Room 206 of the Student Center.

Phi Sigma Sigma does part to help out Coastal

Sorority promotes safety awareness campaign

The sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma, Coastal's first national sorority, are helping to promote the 2-by-2 awareness campaign with Vicki Gardner. Gardner is the sponsor of this program. 2-by-2's main purpose is to encourage students, especially young women that there is safety in numbers.

Successful Rush Week

Phi Sigma Sigma would like to take time out to thank all the girls who came out during rush. Sorority rush was held Sept. 9-13. We want to congratulate all the sororities for their hard work and dedication during rush. We would also like to give a big welcome to all of our new members. Here's to another successful rush and many more to come.

Community Service

On Sept. 21, the sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma participated in the annual beach sweep that was held on a Saturday morning. The beach sweep is held every year after the busy tourist season is over. Members of the sorority also participated in the Pi Kappa Alpha kickball tournament, which also took place on Sept. 21.

Where Coastal students aren't

Well, yet another Club Recruitment Day has gone by. In case anyone noticed (and judging by the attendance, not many did), the African-American Association also held a voter registration drive.

We applaud their efforts to promote student participation, but some things need to be said. First, we must ask, "Why was the turn-out so low?"

Perhaps apathy explains much of it, but not all. Could location be a factor? Let us consider this a moment. Club Recruitment Day was held at the Quad by the New Dorms.

This sounds okay on paper, but look a little closer. Club Recruitment Day was held from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Who is around the New Dorms at these hours? Mainly Freshman, with a few others thrown in. These are a prime target for recruitment, no doubt, but what about the rest of Coastal?

Over half of the students at Coastal commute. How many of these actually wander by the Quad area? Honestly, the Quad is a bit out of the way for most students.

Do any of these commuting students pass by the New Dorms between classes? I think the number is right about zero, with negative ten factor of error.

It is perfectly alright to provide opportunities to the freshman on campus, but not to the exclusion of all the other students.

You would think another area would be more appropriate for an activity that involves all the students at Coastal. Perhaps the area between the Singleton Building and the Student Center, or between the Wall Building and the Prince Building would be more appropriate.

More students pass through these areas than by the New Dorms. Most students' schedules involve movement through these areas at least once every day. One would think that these would be the prime areas for such events. Alas, such is not the case.

We know that Coastal is trying to show the dorm students all that it has to offer, but there are other others attending classes here. These students deserve to have the same opportunities presented to them. After all, the object of events like Club Recruitment Day is exposure to as many students as possible. The logical action, therefore, would be to hold Club Recruitment Day in an area that allows maximum exposure to the student body.

Just a thought, that's all.

VIEWPOINT

Trials and tribulations of Freshman life in the new dorms at Coastal

BY BETH RODDICK
STAFF WRITER

There are three aspects to living on campus that will either make you love or hate your school.

There is the food, the dorm life and the people that you live with. Based on these three things, how would you rate your Coastal experience so far?

Well if you live in the dorms, chances are you have eaten (or at least tried to eat) the food in the new cafeteria. I think everyone will agree when I say that once is enough.

Student Debby Biederman stated "The food is not very healthy. There is little or no fruit, and no variety in anything." All I have to say is "Brownie Surprise!" What is it? Is it even edible? For those fortunate few who have never seen it, it looks like all of the desserts from the past week mixed together and topped with whipped cream. For others the problem is not the food but rather the time that they can eat. "The cafeteria should have an open dining policy. Many students end up missing meals because their classes run through meal hours," said Melinda Miley.

When you were in high school, you probably saw movies about college that made you look forward to the most exciting aspect of college: the Dorm Life. Freshman Amy Day and her friends all agree that, "... The new dorms are boring; there is nothing to do."

"It is a learning experience for everyone," says Jerry Gregory, a Resident Assistant (R.A.) in the New Dorms. "Coastal has never had this many people living on campus at one time."

In the movies there is always something to do in the dorms, even if you were just laying around the TV room. At this point I would like to extend a special thanks to Coastal Productions. If it wasn't for their activities, the dorms would truly be lifeless. Unfortunately, the new dorms do not have a common TV room. In fact, the Director of Resident Life, Kim Montague, said that there is no plan currently to put one in because everyone brought their own televisions and have cable access in their rooms. However, he did say that if there is a public outcry for a common room, they would be happy to put one in. The Office of Resident Life also has some activities planned, but the next is not until Oct. 25. The annual Fallfest that they hold is very much like a "battle of the dorms," and more information will be given as the time approaches. Montague said that they are also taking suggestions. Anyone who has an activity idea is being asked to contact Holly Hallman, Christine Holtzmann, or their R.A.

"For those fortunate few who have never seen it [Brownie Surprise], it looks like all of the desserts from the past week mixed together and topped with whipped cream."

Finally we have the most important aspect of living on campus: The people that you live with. "It is a nice environment," said Megan, another R.A. in the New Dorms. "I just wish that the students would have more respect for the building and the other students that live here."

A Coastal male student noted that, "three fourths of the males that live on campus should still be in high school." Everyday dorm residents wake up to broken elevators, missing exit signs, and the most recent prank, false fire alarms that go off at early morning hours. This has become dangerous. The fire department has to come out everytime the alarm goes off, and they have no way of knowing whether or not it is a false alarm. "They tear down our facilities, our stairways smell like smoke, and people are constantly breaking the elevator. This building already looks like crap and we will probably have to pay for the damages," one student noted.

This is true. Every time someone breaks an exit sign, tears down a light fixture or sets off the sprinkler system and ruins the carpet, we will end up paying for it when they raise residency payments next year.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

It has recently come to my attention that the Faculty Senate has voted to increase the length of each of the semesters one week. So instead of the current sixteen week semester they would change it to seventeen weeks. That would mean that the school year would start a week earlier, and it would end a week later.

Coastal Carolina already starts the school year earlier than other universities. To start a week would bring the students to school on the Aug. 13, with classes beginning on Aug. 18.

Many students already feel the start of the school comes too early. Also, instead of the second semester ending early in May, the semester would not close until the week of May 11-15.

If they make this change, the summer vacation would obviously be shortened. The change also does not add any other vacation days to the calendar to compensate for the additional weeks. Not only does this change affect regular semesters, but it also affects the summer sessions.

All of the sessions would be shortened from five weeks to four weeks. The Faculty Senate feels it is a good idea to increase the regular semesters, but then they shorten the summer sessions. What a high degree of intelligence being shown there by the Senate. Also, the beginning of Maymester would May 18.

This would give those students participating only a weekend between the end of the spring semester and the beginning of the Maymester.

My understanding is that the Faculty Senate voted on this measure without much input from the students, who this adversely affects. The Student Government was not represented at many meetings.

Also, it seems that very few of the students were aware that the Faculty Senate was voting on this change. So, someone has failed the students by not informing them of the goings on of the campus.

Someone is to blame for this failure, be it the SGA, the Faculty Senate or whomever. Even though this change has been discussed by the Faculty Senate for nearly a year, many students really do have no idea what was going on. Also, I have been led to believe that many faculty members do not wish the change implemented. Even the vote in the Faculty Senate, 15 to 10 for the change reflects how little support this measure has. Now it is up to the student body to voice it's opinion.

At last check the students of this school still had a right to be heard. Unless we as students make our voices heard we will be going to school for another week per semester. It may not sound like much, but if you think about it do you really want to? Think about the loss of two working weeks.

Those two less working weeks greatly affect those students who work to pay their tuition. Also, getting out of school a week later will put Coastal students a week behind in the fight for summer jobs.

On a lesser scale, there is the possibility of an increase in housing or meal plan costs. After all that extra two weeks is two more weeks for which the school can charge the students. Longer semesters are definitely not a good idea!

Sincerely,
David Crafts

Dear Editor,

When people speak, someone listens. When people speak and someone understands, laughs, cries, or becomes distraught, they feel what the writer portrays.

My experiences at Coastal have led me to believe not everyone has the ability to comprehend the true meaning of dedication and community service a must among Universities? Yes, it does have its benefits throughout our communities. The hungry are nourished and the unloved are loved. My questions about community service are not only directed to students but to faculty staff. How often do faculty attend community service projects if it is not mandatory? What an example you set for your students! Why not practice what is preached? Yes, encouragement is a step ahead in quality education. Please take the next step up towards a better community.

Students, you are the backbone of this fine combed facility. I was extremely impressed with two students when I observed them discussing community service. Joel and that young gentleman deserve an honor society named after them for the enthusiasm that engulfed their conversation.

Of course, there is a downfall with community service in mind. It makes me absolutely nauseous to see students in community service projects because it is mandatory for an organization or extra credit is involved. This motivation is weak and putrid. These so called students are seen in clusters discussing what party is going on that night while the true altruistic students are playing football with the kids.

Yet, there is a light of fulfillment behind those extra credits in the tunnel of community service. Just remember to take time and appreciate what you have done, not what you have done for your egocentric self.

Sincerely,
Patrick Hermann

CCU Women's Cross Country team, runaway winners

BY PAUL LEWIS
SPORTS EDITOR

Ranked for the first time in the eleven year history of the Women's Cross Country program, the Chanticleers are number eight in NCAA Region III. Head Coach Alan Connie said on the subject of being ranked, "we are excited, but we have a lot of work to do to insure that we are at least that high at the end of the season."

In the sport of cross country the country is divided into eight different regions for all schools competing at the Division I level. Region III is the largest of the eight, as it covers the states of Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and parts of Mississippi.

There are nearly eighty some odd schools competing at the Division I level in this region (double the number of any other region).

The Chanticleers have a history of running away from the competition in the Big South Conference, with four conference championships (including two in the last three years). No other school in the Big South can lay claim to the Chanticleers' other sterling accomplishments of twenty-eight All Big South Conference selections, or five Individual Conference Champions.

Leading the way for this season Chants will be Juniors Catherine Conder, Angela Murphy, and (as the other teams have noticed) closely followed by Juniors Laurie Occhipinti, Meghan Oesterheldt. Sophomore Danielle Barajas, Freshmen Ingrid Burgess, Jolene Williams. Rounding out the team are Seniors Anne Marie Quirk and Krista Rowland, Junior Sinead Dughan, Sophomores Emily Owens and Elizabeth Pendleton.

According to Coastal Carolina's sports information department, "Conder is the Big South's all-time greatest distance runner." Three-time defending conference champion, Conder seeks to become the first and only runner in the history of the Big South to win the individual championship and runner of the year honors. Conder was named as the top freshman in NCAA Division I for 1995 in 10,000 meters at the Outdoor Track and Field Championships held in Knoxville, TN.

This is in addition to the school and conference record she set in the 5000 meter event at the prestigious Penn Relays with a time of 16 minutes 26 seconds.

Angela Murphy, a fine runner in her own right, has a pocket full of awards and achievements as well: 1996 Big South Conference LEADER OF THE PACK! Catherine Conder, member of the Coastal Cross Country Team, trains in her Native New Zealand.

Female Scholar Athlete of the Year, defending champion in the 800 and 1500 meter events. She also qualified for the National Championships at the 3000 meter and 5000 meter distances.

Laurie Occhipinti would be the first winner of the Cross Country Iron Man Award (or Iron Person) if it existed. She missed the majority of the 1995 season due to a broken bone in her foot.

Occhipinti recovered, and after only two months of training, was selected as an All Big South Conference performer for the second straight year.

In a recent meet held at the UNC Pembroke Invitational, the Chanticleers recorded a perfect score of fifteen. They did this by placing the first seven runners and completely sweeping the field in spite of getting lost on the course.

The course was muddy and soaked from Hurricane Fran, leading to all nine Coastal runners being easily led off of the course and having to make up lost time and distance. "It would have been nice to see what we could have done if it (the course) had been properly marked," said Conder adding that she ran "about an extra 300 meters." Head Coach Alan Connie commented that "Catherine, was on pace for about a (15 minute 40 second) three mile and Angela was on pace for a 16:40."

"They are both asserting themselves as the top runners in Region III." Connie also credited Oesterheldt and Pendleton by saying they "were the most lost as they ran an extra 3 minutes to get back into the crowd and work their way back. It is not what you want to happen, but at least they responded well and were able to come back."

At the Winthrop Invitational held on September 21, the Chants were only able to score a twenty-four. According to Connie, "the win at Winthrop was nice but it was made even sweeter because our number one runner (Conder-sore Quad muscles) didn't run."

Murphy paced the team, and the field, with a winning time of 17:17, followed by Danielle Barajas (3rd), Laurie Occhipinti (5th), Jolene Williams (7th) and Ingrid Burgess (8th).

Chanticleer fans will have only one chance to catch the ladies cross country team in action in the Myrtle Beach area, and that is on October 19, at the Coastal Beach Classic held at Midway Par 3 (8:30 A.M.). With the way these ladies run, I would get there early.

Soccer team gets first conference win; shorthanded

BY KIT KADLEC
STAFF WRITER

The Coastal Carolina soccer team, 4-3-2 (1-1), managed to win their first Big South Conference match in a 2-0 win against UNC-Asheville last Saturday. They were able to do this minus 5 regular starters.

This came about because of disciplinary problems and lack of production on the field. "Do it or sit the bench," said Coastal coach Paul Banta. "We will go with the players who really want to do it."

Jack Apanowicz scored the first goal, assisted by Jason Garrett, about 8 minutes into the second half. Apanowicz was one of the players recently added to the starting lineup. Ryan Walker built on the lead with his 7th goal late in the game to seal the victory. "I thought they played better tonight," said Banta.

There were 21 fouls, 5 cautions, and 1 ejection in the game. Some of these penalties left a few Coastal players injured momentarily. This forced Banta to reach deep into his bench, and play everyone available. This was his only option because a few regular starters did not even dress. "We have no bench," said Banta after the game.

In the conference opener, Winthrop beat Coastal 2-0. The Chants were again without some starters. Banta thought this should have been a Coastal win, had they been at full strength. "We should be 7-1-1," he said last Saturday.

In earlier action, the Campbell University soccer team got their kicks in against the Chanticleers edging them 2-1 in recent action at the Eakes Athletic Complex.

The Fighting Camels set the tone for the match early striking on a go-ahead goal in the contest's third minute when Pasi Kinturi's shot to the lower right corner of the net got past Coastal keeper Neal Robinson (1.77 G.A.A.). But Coastal was not ready to throw in the towel.

Walker sparked the Chants with a steal in the Camel box, followed by a left-footed shot past Campbell net-minder, Will Poe, into the lower right side of the net.

The celebration was short-lived because Walker was forced to leave the match with a dislocated thumb in the game's twenty-fourth minute and did not return.

Gerrard Jones nearly pulled Coastal even when he beat Poe on a breakaway, but this day would belong to the Fighting Camels as his shot caromed harmlessly off of the right post.

Coastal's next home game is Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. vs. Jacksonville.

Hopefully the Chants will have all of their regular starters ready to play by then. On a positive note, Ryan Walker was honored last week as the Big South Conference Honorable Mention Player of the Week.

Coastal volleyball team tames Cougars Beats College of Charleston in four games

BY PAUL LEWIS
SPORTS EDITOR

Within the confines of the small gym, the Chanticleers parlayed a home court advantage into a 3-1 victory over the visiting College of Charleston.

Coastal's attack, led by Jr. Outside hitter Amy Bambenek and Fr. Middle Blocker Emma Prowse, gave the Cougars nary a Chant's (chance) to catch their collective breaths in the first of four games. With Bambenek pecking away at the visitors psyche from the service line, and the running kills from Prowse, the Cougars were forced to take time-outs early to settle down.

The outcome was pretty much decided early in the first game in which Coastal won 15-4. The visitors were unable to put together more than one point on their attacks. Game #2 was a decidedly different affair with the same result: a victory for the Chanticleers.

In the early going, the common denominator for both teams was sloppy play. Yet the ladies did catch lightning in a bottle after trailing 8-5, and rallied to defeat the visitors 15-9. In the third game, Cougar coach Jewel Giesy assumed a nothing to lose attitude by inserting her younger players in an effort to change her rotation. The net result was a 9-15 loss for Coach Tammi Lee's Chanticleers. Game #4 was a combination of games #1 and #3, in that in the early going the Chanticleers had a rough start, battling for a 3-3 tie. Then Prowse, Bambenek, and Roberta Croteau reasserted themselves and took a commanding lead en-route to a 15-6 win.

In post game comments, Cougar coach Jewel Giesy credited the Chanticleers with "having a great game, and a fast offense." With just a trace of sarcasm in her voice she added that she "loved the lighting."

Coastal to host Elite Thrower's Competition

Coastal Carolina University will be hosting an elite thrower's competition under the direction Head Men's and Women's Track and Field Coach, Jim Koster, and the Mjolnir Thrower's Club on Friday, October 4th, 3 p.m., at the university's new track and field facility.

The competition will include three events: the hammer throw, discus and the shot put. The key note guest will be Yuuri (Yuri) Syedhk, the current world record holder in the men's hammer throw at 284 feet.

Syedhk was also the Olympic Gold Medalist in the 1976 and 1980 Olympic Games and the 1983 and 1987 world Track and Field Hammer Throw Champion. He (Syedhk) hails from Moscow, Russia and in recent months has been in the process of emigrating to the United States.

Also scheduled to attend is Dr. Peter Farmer, a two time Olympian and Common Wealth Games Champion for Australia in the hammer throw and Andy Bloom, the 1996 NCAA Division I Champion in the shot and the discus. Furthermore, there will also be age group national champions and record holders involved.

The public is invited to watch this elite competition and meet these champions.

COASTAL PRODUCTIONS
Be Part of the Fun!

We NEED YOU and Your Organization!

Clubs and organizations are still needed to sponsor this year's Rocktoberfest t-shirt. For $50 your club or organization can have their logo on the back of the t-shirt. For more information about being a sponsor, call Teri at 349-2326 or Debbie at 349-2303.

We are also looking for clubs and organizations interested in contributing to this concert extravaganza. A Pepsi Wagon will be provided by Coastal Productions and the rest is up to you. All Proposed Booth Forms must be turned in to the Office of Student Activities by Oct. 16. For more information 349-2326.
